MONICA BARRY.
The woman with a long record of crime, who is again in the toils.

HER RECORD GOES BACK TO 1872.

Monica Barry, a remarkable woman with a remarkable record, appeared in the Superior Court yesterday. She was ablaze with diamonds and flashy apparel as she faced the judge. The circumstances leading up to her appearance there furnish a story entirely in keeping with her extraordinary career. The woman calls herself Minnie Barry, though the police are more familiar with the Christian name, Monica, which she sometimes uses. She is about 50 years old.

On the 6th of the present month the police raided the house numbered 68 Goring street. They were looking for liquor and evidence of evil-doing generally, but were disappointed in that respect.

But they had a very agreeable surprise before they gave up the search finally. They stumbled over the Barry woman.

Monica had many and diverse reasons for not wishing to interview the police, chief of which was that in June, 1898, a charge of keeping a disorderly house was placed on file on condition that she leave the State and stay away.

She went to Providence, and has not been seen in Boston until she was arrested on June 6.

The day she was released she was carried into court on a stretcher, and a prominent physician testified that for weeks prior to her arrest she had been suffering from a nervous breakdown, and that she would not live over six months, anyway.

This was after she had served a few weeks of a sentence imposed in 1896, she being released under a $500 bond on the plea of sickness. She defaulted, and was not caught until July in the following year, when, during a raid of a notorious house at the South End, as the officers were vacating one of the rooms in the house, one of them saw the head of a woman's garment protruding from beneath a couch. He investigated, and found that it was a woman's dress, all right, and there was a real, live woman in it, none other, in fact, than Monica.

She was tried and sentenced, but later secured her release, as stated above. Yesterday Monica was being tried in the Municipal Court on the idle and disorderly charge preferred by the police, who arrested her in the Goring street house. She claimed that she was there selling clothing on the installment plan, but the judge couldn't believe that Monica was really working for a living, and he held her in $300.

The troubles of the woman were not starting at that point, for before she got out of the court room in came a representative of the district attorney and told the story of Monica's life to the judge. She was then taken up into the Superior Court and arraigned on the old charge, and was held in $500 for Monday next. As she didn't have the amount of money or the equivalent in jewelry, she will be a guest of the State until her case is called for trial.

Following is the woman's remarkable record, as taken from the books of the police:

December, 1872—Larceny in building. Case not pressed.

January, 1873—Larceny in building. Case placed on file.

October and November, 1874—Keeping disorderly house. Case not pressed on payment of costs.

November, 1875—Larceny. Case placed on file.

October, 1876—Idle and disorderly. Case not pressed.

May, 1876—Common night walker. Four months at Deer Island House of Correction.

September, 1877—Larceny and battery with a bottle. Placed on file.

April, 1878—Larceny. One year in woman's prison at Sherborn.

March, 1878—Assault with lamp. Not guilty.

January, 1878—Assault and battery. No bill.

April, 1878—Keeping disorderly house. Fined $100 and costs.

January, 1884—Keeping disorderly house. Not pressed on payment of costs.

February, 1885—Keeping disorderly house. Case not pressed.

May, 1894—Assault and battery. Placed on file; costs paid.

May, 1894—Keeping disorderly house. Not pressed.

May, 1898—Larceny. Fined $50.

Association Conference at Northfield Held Fair to Be Largest in Its History.

EAST NORTHFIELD, July 13.—The annual conference of the Young Women's Christian Association opened this afternoon in the auditorium with a service by Rev. George H. Phillips of Brooklyn, N. Y. The auditorium was well filled, there being present the largest audience for the opening night in the history of the association. The program of the conference for the next eleven days will be the discussion of religious matters. It is too early yet to form an accurate record of the number of delegates here, but from present appearances it seems that last year's record will easily be beaten.

TROUBLE IS EXPECTED.

Whites and Friendly Redskins Warned to Leave or Suffer Torture.

PETITION BEGS FOR TROOPS.

SOLWAY, Minn., July 13.—The danger of an outbreak by the Blanket Indians on Red Lake is increasing. The Indian police from the agency have gone over to the point where the Blankets are holding their war dance, and it is expected trouble will ensue.

Bulletins have been posted, warning all friendly Indians and whites to remain away from the point or suffer the consequences.

A petition will be sent to Governor Lind tomorrow asking that a detachment of State troops be sent to Red Lake at once.

The Indians keep up their war dances, and their shouts can be heard for three miles at frequent intervals.

BURNHAM HELD.

Lawrence Man Charged With Criminal Libel of W. S. Jewett.

RESULT OF ALLEGED TAKE-OFF

LAWRENCE, July 13.—Charles L. Burnham was arraigned in the Police Court this morning charged with criminal libel of William S. Jewett, publisher of the Lawrence American and Morning Sun. The former had a float in the antiquities and horribles parade on the Fourth of July which was said to be a take-off on the newspapers published by Mr. Jewett.

It represented what purported to be a "Modern Newspaper," with Jewett editing the same from a cell in jail.

It was awarded first prize of $75 by the committee, composed of five well-known citizens. In addition to the figures and structures on the float, circulars were thrown from it containing matter said to reflect seriously on Publisher Jewett and one of his editors and the policy on which the papers were conducted.

Ever since the parade conducted, it has been rumored that Jewett would bring suit against Mr. Burnham.

Thursday Mr. Burnham was placed under arrest. He promptly furnished $1000 bail, ex-Mayor Simpson becoming surety for him, and he was released.

This morning the case was called in the Police Court, but was continued until Monday. Lawyer J. L. Deane appears for Jewett, and Colonel Sweeney will defend Burnham.

All the parties are well known and have taken active part in the life of the city, social, business and political.

Burnham is said to have been almost as celebrated a case as the famous libel suit of three years ago against the late Jeremiah T. O'Sullivan.

The search among the ruins yesterday revealed no bodies, as was feared might be the case. Omega Oil

The Great Green Liniment

Omega Oil is good for rough, red skin. It is due for sunburn or chafing. It is splendid for tired arms, weak backs and aching legs. It is the most soothing and comforting thing known in the world for sore, itching, burning, swollen, tender feet. Any one who has used it will tell you these very things. And you can use it freely and often, for it never blisters or reddens the skin.

"Omega Oil is all that you claim it to be. One of my neighbors came to my house with a lame arm. It pained him so he could not sleep. I rubbed the oil on it, and next morning he came again saying the pain was all gone and he slept all night. He says he never saw anything like it. It is a blessing. I have found it so on many persons. It has helped me. Mrs. RACHEL KING. So, Springfield, Me. 734 circulated that a man was seen moving among the crowd shortly after the explosion Thursday night waving the stump of a hand, and that he disappeared in the direction of the river. But although they diligently pursued this clue the police were unable to find no one yesterday who was certain of having seen such a person or who knew anything definite of the rumored occurrence.

Viewing the Fragment.

The fragment of hand described was viewed yesterday by hundreds of people who crowded about the scene of the disaster. It was buried beneath the mud and so deep that the plan had to be changed.

Another Mystery.

Another mystery which yet awaits solution is that of a jacket which was found near the blazing tank shortly after the explosion by Captain Perry. The coat was badly burned, and one pocket was a number of papers bearing the mark of the Charlestown Five Cents Savings Bank. The name "Curly" was legible on some of the scorched paper.

The Need of Hydrants.

An interesting question has arisen in connection with the fire, and that is the risk of going without hydrants in a yard of this sort. "It is a fact," said Captain Tucker, "that there was not a drop of water to be had for putting out that fire inside the Mystic Junction yards last night. A few hydrants might have saved the tank, and all the confusion and loss."

Some Swam for It.

Here, however, the Chelsea boys had the advantage, for they knew the lay of the land best and had an easy time making their escape, while the East Boston lads had to wade through a marsh mud up to their knees, while not a few had to swim for safety.

The Cause of the Trouble.

Edward Isester, a young man well known in Chelsea and living with his parents, at 88 Chestnut street, was accustomed to visit East Boston constantly.

Two more were added to the list of victims yesterday, making three in all up to the present time.

Clearing Up the Wreck.

All day yesterday the wrecking crew was busily engaged clearing away the ruins in the Boston & Maine yard. Many of the cars were found to be less seriously injured than was at first supposed. Only seven were totally destroyed. About $200,000 worth of property was lost. It was estimated by a yard official last evening that the loss would be slightly over $200,000. The fact that so much of the damage was to freight in transit makes it impossible, however, to give an accurate estimate of the loss.

impossible, however, to give an accurate estimate of the loss.

J. O'Connell, who takes the place of Augustus Hawkins, the injured yard master, was in charge of the wrecking train yesterday. Much of the damaged work of the demolished cars was loaded on days to be shipped to the Concord car barns of the B. & M. road.

Mr. George Turner, representing the Standard Oil Company, was on the scene early yesterday looking after the remaining oil tanks. The big tank, which burned furiously nearly all night, was found on examination, when the fire was extinguished yesterday morning, to have sustained but slight damage.

The oil had been reduced about seven inches. The remainder was pumped into a new tank.

The yard was cleared up by nightfall, although a small crew worked until well into the evening. But slight delay was caused to traffic and that entirely in local freight.

Appalling Loss Was Possible.

It now seems that it was by the merest accident that the loss of life, had as it now is, did not result in a still more appalling disaster. The big tank, it seems, dropped down at one end when the truss supporting it gave way under the fierce heat, and lay at an angle when the explosion came.

Firemen's Narrow Escape.

Chief Hopkins of the Somerville station is now congratulating himself on the fact that just about one foot too much mud and water separated them from the fire to enable them to carry out their original plan of fighting the tank.

FISH MAKES MANY FAIR CUBANS SICK.

They Are Temporarily Disabled by Improper Food.

INFIRMARY TO BE ESTABLISHED.

Dance in the Hemenway Gymnasium Last Evening Much Enjoyed by Those Who Were Able to Attend—Senorita Liuy's Budget of Notes and Happenings.

Many of the Cuban teachers at Harvard were taken suddenly ill yesterday, and, therefore, were unable to attend the reception and dance in the Hemenway gymnasium last evening.

This sudden indisposition is believed to have been caused by fish which they had eaten on the previous day. They believe it was not quite fresh, and some feared that ptomaine poisoning might develop.

The outbreak called attention to the need of providing full hospital facilities in case there is much sickness among the teachers, due to change of climate, or food, or other causes, and accordingly an infirmary is to be opened on Massachusetts avenue for their benefit. Dr. Stone and the Cuban physicians in the party will be in attendance.

Those of the teachers who were able to attend the dance last evening enjoyed it very much.

The teachers are all studying hard and making good progress in their work. They are storing the cells of their brains with knowledge.

Yesterday afternoon a number of the teachers made trips to Atlantic and Cambridge, and returned with a number of books. The subject for the latter was "Deposition," and for Atlantic, "Marine Deposition."

The teachers are taking a great deal of comfort in the "Salas Catolicas," or Catholic halls, conducted by the Catholic Alumnal Society, in Harvard Hall. It is the one devoted to the use of the men in the party, while in Brooks House the ladies find comfortable quarters.

(By Senorita Liuy.)

On account of some cause, quite a number of Cuban teachers got sick and have been unable to attend their classes, and among the rest, your humble servant.

The Cuban teachers who were able to attend the ball last night. Those poor sick ones who were not able to attend missed a number of great pleasures.

It is expected in the near future that some of the Arlington ladies will entertain many of the Cuban teachers at the Arlington Boat Club house. There they will enjoy a row on the beautiful Spy Pond.

Some of the Cuban teachers have had the misfortune of losing their parents since they have been in Cambridge and of course they feel very sad.

Some of the Cuban ladies who speak English think that when they will return to their native land, they will be able to read and write in the English language. Those ladies are preparing to give lessons in Spanish of the beautiful things they have seen and heard in this delightful country, and particularly of the customs of Bostonians and how they are being entertained.

With much pleasure the Cuban teachers read the letter from the little Dorchester girl in yesterday's Post, and they extend their deep sympathy to her and hope to hear from her again soon.

The Cuban lady teachers wish to know through the Post if this young lady would write a number of letters from them with their love.

RIOT ON EAST BOSTON BRIDGE.

The fray was rapidly resolving itself into a question as to how badly the Chelsea boys would be beaten. Brutes and fools, those not actually knocked out, were fighting on with valor worthy of a better cause.

Where they would have finished no one can tell, for when their position became really desperate a squad of Chelsea police came on the scene.

They had been called by Patrolman Burke, whom Chief Drury had stationed at the bridge to watch out for trouble. He was quietly patrolling the East Boston side, when a moment's warning told him that a riot was in progress, and he rushed to the scene.

The patrol wagon, under Sergeant Tucker, responded. Leaving the wagon on Central avenue, the officers entered the oil company's yard, thereby flanking the embattled ones.

"The cops! the cops!" cried the boys and they retreated to the East Boston side.

The officers charged on the boys, who met them with a shower of sticks and other missiles. For an instant the boys held steady, but then the Chelsea boys broke and left. For a moment the battle raged, then the East Bostonians broke and ran, leaving six of their number in the hands of the police.

JURY COMPLETE.

Evidence Begun in the Goebel Murder Trial.

GEORGETOWN, Ky., July 13.—The jury was completed in the Powers case today and the first evidence was heard.

Before the hearing of evidence began, Colonel Campbell stated the case for the prosecution.

He said that Caleb Powers was the most aggressive among those who sought to settle the contest by violence, and that to him largely was due the impetus to the band of the band of mounted men, 175 of whom were retained in Frankfort regularly.

He charged that a majority of them had killed from one to several men each. He claimed that Powers was in evidence that on Jan. 23 Mr. Powers made use of a statement that "Goebel has not as many days to live as I have fingers on my hand."

He claimed the facts in connection with the assassination, and claimed that the State House yard had been cleared in furtherance of the conspiracy, cited the closing of the executive building against the officers, the calling out of troops and other matters which have already come out in the examining trials as further proof of the conspiracy.

D. Meade Woodson, ex-city engineer of Frankfort, who made the measurements by which the prosecution, through mathematical demonstrations, attempted to prove that the shot was fired from Powers's office, was the first witness.

PISTOL STOPS FLEEING MAN.

After Taking a Seaman's Watch the Robbers Tried to Escape.

Two pistol shots rang out in front of 108 Court street about 1:15 o'clock this morning. The shots were fired in the air by Officer Merritt of Station 4, and they brought to a halt Joseph Connelly, a young man who was residing at 49 Third street, South Boston, and was formerly a seaman on board the U. S. cruiser New York.

Connelly and a "pal," it is alleged, had just stolen a watch from Harry Merritt, a seaman on board the S. S. Saco, now at West Lynn, when Officer Merritt happened along.

Connelly, the police charge, slipped the watch to his "pal," who then hid it. Merritt's pistol brought him to a standstill, and Officer Hall coming up the street headed off Connelly and took him prisoner.
