President Eliot's Address.

President Eliot said in part:

"Fellow-Teachers—You have happily accomplished a formidable journey, and now I hope you feel yourselves safe and comfortable among friends. To you the university represents the intelligence and good will of the American people and their accumulated resources for education. To the university you represent the intelligence and good will of the Cuban people and their educational ambition and hope.

"Together we are going to try a unique experiment in mutual service. We are going to see how much we can enlarge each other's minds and sympathies and strengthen each other's sense of brotherhood in six week. filled with common labors and delights.

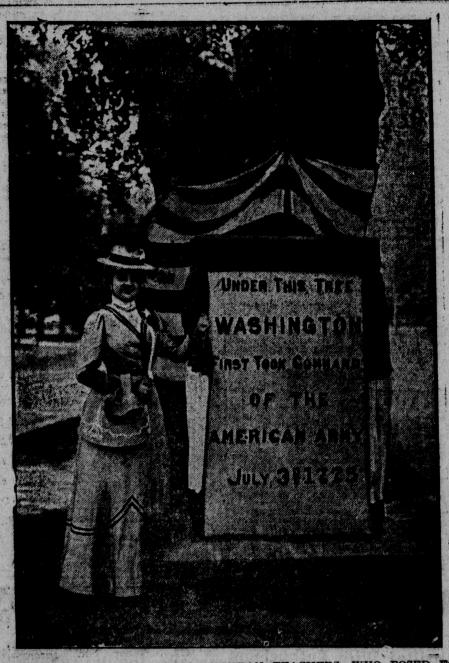

The arrangement for dividing the whole number into classes was excellent, guides, with standards, en which were printed numbers, being placed at each section.

Books were given out in Sever Hall, and at 9:30 all returned to Sanders Theatre for the geography lecture. This was given with stereopticon and delivered in Spanish by Mr. Jefferson, a Harvard graduate and principal of the Brockton High School.

Several Cases of Sickness.

Several cases of sickness are reported among the Cubans, but none are very serious except a case of pneumonia, in which a woman teacher is the sufferer. A Cuban physician is in attendance.

Seporita Aqueda Abay has been taken to the Cambridge Hospital with what is supposed to be typhoid fever. The young woman was among the passengers of the transport McPherson, which arrived last Saturday, and on arriving in Cambridge she was placed with a dozen others at 10 Oxford street. The stranger was suffering from a bad cold when she arrived, and the precautions taken by Mrs. Whiteman, head of the house, in supplying warm clothing were without avail.

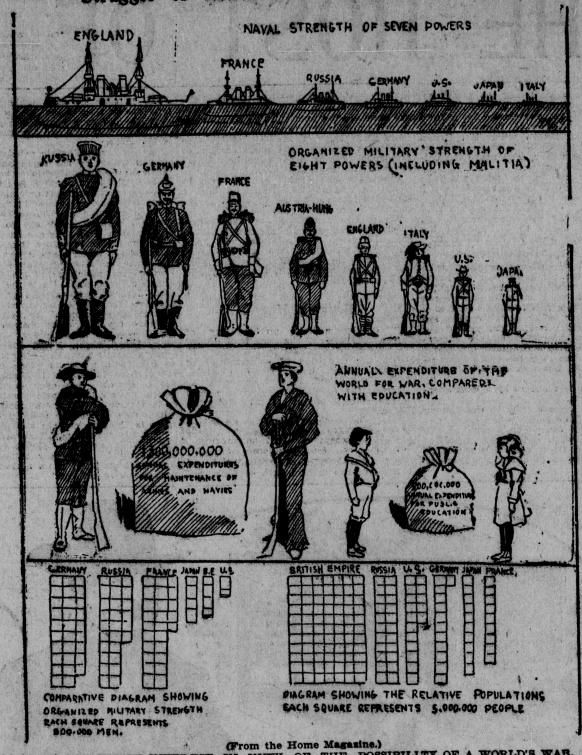

A Cuban physician was called and attended her twice a day until she was taken to the Cambridge Hospital.

The trouble arose over the introduction of the feur-loom system in the worsted department of the mill.

BIG PROVIDENCE FIRE.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 6.—Shortly before 2 o'clock this morning a three-alarm fire was sounded from the box at the corner of Dorrance and Pine streets, calling the department to a bad fire in the Fineserald building on Eddy street.

It is a six-story brick structure, and when discovered the fire was sweeping through the entire sixth floor. The building is occupied by manufacturing jewellers. The loss will be heavy.

Harvard Instructor Must Face a Murder Charge.

DYING MAN'S STATEMENT.

Witnesses Allege That Grogan Said He Was Murdered.

SOME FAMILY HISTORY.

Charles R. Eastman, aged 32 years, an instructor at Harvard University, who was arrested Wednesday upon the charge of murdering his brother-in-law, Richard H. Grogan, Jr., was brought before the judge of the Third District Court of Eastern Middlesex, the Hon. Charles Almy, yesterday.

Eastman waived examination and his case was continued until next Monday. Eastman being held without bail.

Assistant Inspector Jones, assisted by the chief surveyor of the city of Cambridge, was busily engaged yesterday upon the scene of the tragedy, taking measurements which will undoubtedly be used at the trial.

Mrs. Belle Bryan, housekeeper, has been held in $300 bonds for her appearance as a witness, for, as told in the Post yesterday, it was largely due to a story she told that Eastman was arrested on the charge of murder.

Several witnesses have been found whose testimony is entirely opposed to the theory of accident.

L. G. Tilson, janitor of the Baptist Homes, claims the dying man said "I have been murdered" as he lay on the ground when Tilson arrived.

Mr. Walter Titus, a drug clerk, who is employed at the pharmacy located at the corner of Eliot and Washington streets, Boston, was another witness, and he is said to have heard Grogan say, "Charlie, you have killed me."

John Grogan, brother of the dead man, claims there had been bad feeling between his brother and Eastman for some time, and that Eastman had threatened his brother's life. Both had carried revolvers.

In continuance the brother said: "The Eastman waived examination and his his brother's life. Both had carried revolvers.

In continuance the brother said: "The Post had the story of the tragedy exactly right, and there isn't much more to be said. Excepting so far as we know there is only one person who can testify in the case, and that person is. Belle Bryan, the servant who was in the house at that time.

"I was at the house about 10 o'clock last night, and saw Eastman before he was locked up. When the police first questioned him I hear he said it was an accident, then later I understand he changed his statement, and said that Dick fired three shots at him first. Now, I know that if Dick fired the first shot Eastman would have never come out of it alive. My brether was to good a marksman to miss his man at eight feet. He was a recognized expert with fire-and had taken prizes here and out in Dakota for his work with the rife and the revolver. employed. It was said by one or more of the heirs that Grogan did not pay enough for the business, but neverthe-less the transaction was honorable and properly adjusted.

The medical examiners, Swan and Durrell, completed their examination yesterday, and the case now rests pending the action of District Attorney Wier of Lowell, who will assume command on Monday next.

SEA AIR FOR WEAK INFANTS,

Boston's Floating Hospital Took Twelve Infants for an Outing Yesterday.

Infants for an Outing Yesterday.

The Boston floating hospital, whose ministrations to the sick babies of many Boston homes have been so effective for the past five years, resumed its summer trips down the harbor yesterday.

Just a dozen tiny pessengers, ten pallid and wasted by disease and two very much in need of a breath of fresh sea air, were registered for the voyage when the hospital ship swung off the dock. Four of these were classed as day patients, meaning that they were booked for one day only; six as permanent, meaning that they were to remain until they got well, and the other two as "well." Of the permanent patients, one is very ill, and was not taken from the boat at all. The doctors watched over her hourly, and the nurses were assiduous in giving the child all that the most skilful and loving care could bestow.

The trip yesterday was to City Point, South Boston. Owing to delays almost inevitable the first day, the start was not made until 3.45 a. m.

The hospital ship will start from city wharf, at the foot of Fleet street, this year. Trips will be made daily at 2.15 a. m.
